NEW QUESTION: 1

A. VSM
B. Bus-Tech
C. VPLEX
D. VSP
Answer: A
Explanation:
The Oracle / StorageTek offering is the VSM-6. They have adopted a modular approach to mainframe tape virtualisation, the four modules being: tape libraries, tape drives, virtual tape disk buffers, and software. This means that most of the logic and intelligence is still held on the mainframe. The VSM uses an Solaris hardware for the disk cache and just comes as a 2 node cluster. It uses FICON for replication channels with just one set of channels to talk to both hosts and drive. The VSM uses triple parity RAID to protect the high capacity drives from failure. The controlling software is z/OS host-based, and Oracle claims that this gives them enormous scalability, with up to 256 VSM systems as a single image. The VSM now supports both synchronous and asynchronous replication of virtual tape volumes within a clustered VSM environment with VSM4 and upwards. Synchronous replication performs the VTV replication before the virtual tape drive completes the rewind/unload command at the sending VTSS. Both Asynchronous and Synchronous replication modes can be used simultaneously in the same VTSS by assigning tapes to different SMS management classes.

NEW QUESTION: 2

A. Option C
B. Option A
C. Option D
D. Option B
Answer: B
Explanation:
Explanation
https://cloud.google.com/docs/enterprise/best-practices-for-ent erprise-organizations Google Cloud Dedicated Interconnect provides direct physical connections and RFC 1918 communication between your on-premises network and Google's network. Dedicated Interconnect enables you to transfer large amounts of data between networks, which can be more cost effective than purchasing additional bandwidth over the public Internet or using VPN tunnels.
Benefits:
* Traffic between your on-premises network and your VPC network doesn't traverse the public Internet.
Traffic traverses a dedicated connection with fewer hops, meaning there are less points of failure where traffic might get dropped or disrupted.
* Your VPC network's internal (RFC 1918) IP addresses are directly accessible from your on-premises network. You don't need to use a NAT device or VPN tunnel to reach internal IP addresses. Currently, you can only reach internal IP addresses over a dedicated connection. To reach Google external IP addresses, you must use a separate connection.
* You can scale your connection to Google based on your needs. Connection capacity is delivered over one or more 10 Gbps Ethernet connections, with a maximum of eight connections (80 Gbps total per interconnect).
* The cost of egress traffic from your VPC network to your on-premises network is reduced. A dedicated connection is generally the least expensive method if you have a high-volume of traffic to and from Google's network.

NEW QUESTION: 4
You work in a company which uses SQL Server 2008. You are the administrator of the company database. Now you are in charge of a SQL Server 2008 instance. The instance has databases for a finance application and a manufacturing application. You want to put some limitation on the maximum CPU query time allowed by the applications, so you configure the Resource Governor to achieve this. But you notice that certain reports do not execute successfully any longer on the manufacturing application. You have to allow the manufacturing application to consume more CPU time, so you have to change the Resource Governor configuration. Which Resource Governor component should you configure?
A. The workload group which is used by the manufacturing application
B. The workload group which is used by default
C. The classifier function which identifies the finance application
D. The workload group which is used by the finance application
Answer: A
