NEW QUESTION: 1
Refer to the exhibit.

During troubleshooting of vPCs, it is observed that virtual port channel 2 is in the down state. Based on the show command output, what is a possible cause of this issue?
A. The virtual port channel is down because of an MTU mismatch.
B. The virtual port channel is down because of a VLAN and MTU mismatch.
C. The virtual port channel is down because LACP is not enabled on the remote switch.
D. The virtual port channel is down because of a VLAN mismatch.
Answer: A
Explanation:
The consistency checker exists to keep bad things from happening on your vPC port-channel (like "unexplaine"" packet dr"ps). There are two types of consistency check failures. The ones that will bring down the entire port-channel (these are type 1s) and the ones that will only cause an error, or keep a single or group of VLANs from becoming active on the port-channel (type 2).

Decisions for what a type 1 and 2 are were made by the engineering team.
For example the MTU mismatch will bring your vPC port-channel down, and it does so in a non vPC port-channel as well. I am sure that you can see the types of issues that having a link with a MTU of 9000 and one of 1500 can cause for a port-channel.
