NEW QUESTION: 1

The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) was designed to do which of the following?

- A. Curtail extensive imports to bolster domestic manufacturing
- B. Protect American workers who go to work overseas
- C. Maintain fair standards in American businesses that have locations abroad
- D. Prevent illegal trafficking of merchandise
- E. Prevent American businesses from bribing foreign governments

Answer: E

Explanation:

Explanation: The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) was created specifically to prevent American businesses from bribing foreign governments. This act has nothing to do with the illegal trafficking of merchandise (answer choice A) or changing the level of imports (answer choice B). And while the larger role of the act is to maintain fair standards, answer choice C is incorrect because it is not clear about the nature of these fair standards. And answer choice E is incorrect because the FCPA is not relevant to protecting American workers overseas but rather focuses on the relationship between American businesses and foreign governments.
