RADIUS accounting There are three types of logging for Network Policy Server (NPS):

Event logging.

Used primarily for auditing and troubleshooting connection attempts.

Logging user authentication and accounting requests to a local file.

Used primarily for connection analysis and billing purposes. Also useful as a security investigation tool because it provides you with a method of tracking the activity of a malicious user after an attack.

Logging user authentication and accounting requests to a [\[email protected\]](#) SQL Server XML-compliant database.

Used to allow multiple servers running NPS to have one data source. Also provides the advantages of using a relational database.

- A. Azure Active Directory (Azure AD) conditional access
- B. an application security group
- C. Azure Active Directory (Azure AD) Privileged Identity Management (PIM)
- D. just in time (JIT) VM access

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation

Just-in-time (JIT) virtual machine (VM) access can be used to lock down inbound traffic to your Azure VMs, reducing exposure to attacks while providing easy access to connect to VMs when needed.

Note: When just-in-time is enabled, Security Center locks down inbound traffic to your Azure VMs by creating an NSG rule. You select the ports on the VM to which inbound traffic will be locked down. These ports are controlled by the just-in-time solution.

When a user requests access to a VM, Security Center checks that the user has Role-Based Access Control (RBAC) permissions that permit them to successfully request access to a VM. If the request is approved, Security Center automatically configures the Network Security Groups (NSGs) and Azure Firewall to allow inbound traffic to the selected ports and requested source IP addresses or ranges, for the amount of time that was specified. After the time has expired, Security Center restores the NSGs to their previous states. Those connections that are already established are not being interrupted, however.
