NEW QUESTION: 1

Which of the following establishes the minimal national standards for certifying and accrediting national security systems?

- A. TCSEC
- B. NIACAP
- C. DIACAP
- D. HIPAA

Answer: B

Explanation:

DIACAP DITSCAP has been replaced by DIACAP (DoD Information Assurance Certification and Accreditation Process) effective Nov 2007 for C&A within the Department of Defense.

The DoD Information Assurance Certification and Accreditation Process (DIACAP) is the United States Department of Defense (DoD) process to ensure that risk management is applied on information systems (IS). DIACAP defines a DoD-wide formal and standard set of activities, general tasks and a management structure process for the certification and accreditation (C&A) of a DoD IS that will maintain the information assurance (IA) posture throughout the system's life cycle.

An interim version of the DIACAP was signed July 6, 2006 and superseded DITSCAP. The final version is titled Department of Defense Instruction 8510.01 and was signed on November 28, 2007. It supersedes the Interim DIACAP Guidance.

NIACAP

National Information Assurance Certification and Accreditation Process (NIACAP), establishes the minimum national standards for certifying and accrediting national security systems. This process provides a standard set of activities, general tasks, and a management structure to certify and accredit systems that will maintain the Information Assurance (IA) and security posture of a system or site.

HIPAA

The HIPAA legislation had four primary objectives:

- (1) Assure health insurance portability by eliminating job-lock due to pre-existing medical conditions,
- (2) Reduce healthcare fraud and abuse,
- (3) Enforce standards for health information and
- (4) Guarantee security and privacy of health information.

TCSEC

The TCSEC defines a hierarchy of various levels of security functionality and assurance criteria. Progression up the hierarchy involves the addition of security functionality and more stringent assurance criteria to enable users to place progressively more trust in the higher rated systems.
