NEW QUESTION: 1

A Known Error has been raised after diagnosis of a Problem was complete but before a workaround has been found. Is this a valid approach?

- A. No, the workaround must be found before a Known Error is created
- B. No, a Known Error must be raised at the same time as a problem
- C. No, a Known Error can only be raised after the permanent resolution has been implemented
- D. Yes

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION: 2

Refer to the exhibit.

An administrator created a backplane stack with the plug-and-play method and did not alter the default backplane stacking settings. Later, the backplane stacking links failed as shown in the exhibit. The network administrator then restored the failed links.

When the stack is reformed, which switches become commander and standby?

- A. Member 4 remains commander, and Member 5 remains standby
- B. Member 4 remains commander, and Member 1 becomes standby
- C. Member 1 becomes commander, and Member 2 becomes standby
- D. Member 1 becomes commander, and Member 4 becomes standby

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 3

Refer to the exhibit.

What is the result of the configuration?

- A. The EtherChannels would form and both devices would use the dst-ip load-balancing method because Switch1 is configured with EtherChannel mode active.
- B. The EtherChannels would not form because the load-balancing method must match on the devices.
- C. The EtherChannels would form, but network loops would occur because the load-balancing methods do not match.
- D. The EtherChannels would form and function properly even though the load-balancing and EtherChannel modes do not match.

Answer: D

Explanation:

An etherchannel will form if one end is active and the other is passive. The table below summarizes the results for LACP channel establishment based on the configuration of each side of a link: LACP Channel Establishment

S1 S2 Established?

Load balancing can only be configured globally. As a result, all channels (manually configured, PagP, or LACP) use the same load-balancing. This is true for the switch globally, although each switch involved in the etherchannel can have non matching parameters for load balancing.

NEW QUESTION: 4

VM1 is configured with the following ACLs:

VM1#configure terminal
ACL 100
deny ip any any ACL 101
deny ip any any ACL 102
deny ip any any
```

VM1 is also configured with the following ACLs:

VM1#configure terminal
ACL 103
deny ip any any
ACL 104
deny ip any any
ACL 105
deny ip any any
```

- A. Rule 100 is applied to the interface.
- B. Rule 101 is applied to the interface.
- C. Rule 102 is applied to the interface.
- D. Rule 103 is applied to the interface.
- E. Rule 104 is applied to the interface.

Answer: D

Explanation:

HTTPS uses port 443.

Rule 2, with priority 500, denies HTTPS traffic.

Rule 5, with priority changed from 2000 to 401, would allow HTTPS traffic.

Note: Priority is a number between 100 and 4096. Rules are processed in priority order, with lower numbers processed before higher numbers, because lower numbers have higher priority. Once traffic matches a rule, processing stops. As a result, any rules that exist with lower priorities (higher numbers) that have the same attributes as rules with higher priorities are not processed.
