You have been tasked to create an enterprise data warehouse. The data warehouse needs to collect data from each of the three channels' various systems and from public records for weather and economic data. Each data source sends data daily for consumption by the data warehouse.

Because each data source may be structured differently, an extract, transform, and load (ETL) process is performed to reformat the data into a common structure. Then, analytics can be performed across data from all sources simultaneously. Which tools shall you implement?

Choose the correct answer:

- A. DynamoDB, Data Pipeline, SQS
- B. RDS, EMR, Data Pipeline, Quicksight

Amazon Redshift loads, sorts, distributes, and compresses the data into its tables so that analytical queries can execute efficiently and in parallel. For visualizing the analytics, Amazon QuickSight can be used, or one of the many partner visualization platforms via the ODBC/JDBC connection to Amazon Redshift .
