NEW QUESTION: 1

Click the exhibit button.

In reference to the NFS export-policy rules shown in the exhibit, NFS clients mounted to /data1 from the 192.168.1.0/24, 192.168.2.0/24 and 192.168.3.0/24 subnets are able to mount /data1 and read files but are unable to edit files or write new files. All other subnets require read-only access to /data1.

What must you do to allow write access to the three subnets while allowing read-only access to all other subnets in this scenario?

- A. Set the index of ruleindex 4 to ruleindex 1.
- B. Set the index of ruleindex 1 to ruleindex 4.
- C. Set the index of ruleindex 2 to ruleindex 4.
- D. Set the index of ruleindex 3 to ruleindex 4.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Make sure the rule with ruleindex 1 is applies last.

Note: You can use the vserver export-policy rule setindex command to manually set an existing export rule's index number. This enables you to rearrange the order in which Data ONTAP processes export rules.

If a client makes an access request that is not permitted by the applicable export policy, the request fails with a permission-denied message. If a client does not match any rule in the export policy, then access is denied. If an export policy is empty, then all accesses are implicitly denied.
